

Inland Empire Council for the Social Studies

invites educators to

Strategies for Improving H-SS
Virtual Learning for Elementary
Students

Zoom Webinar - October 20, 2020

4:00 – 5:00 pm

Featuring Rebecca Valbuena

Register at: <http://iecss.org/event-4004453/Registration>

Social studies is difficult for most young students because they don't have adequate background or context to make sense of the issues and historical events they are studying.

The teacher's goal is to connect the new information to familiar topics or understandings students already have.

Technology can provide support in doing this.

Support learning through the 5 E's

Learn to build connections for students and between students through discussion, collaboration and live (though virtual) interactive class activities.

Rebecca Valbuena has been a social studies leader for many years. Currently she is on the Content, Literacy, Inquiry, and Citizenship Team (CLIC) at LA County Office of Education. She is also a TOSA Academic Coach in the Glendora USD.

Photo by Julia Cameron from Pexels

Questions: Contact Margaret Hill
drpeghill@verizon.net

Rebecca Valbuena has been a social studies leader for many years. Currently she is on the Content, Literacy, Inquiry, and Citizenship Team (CLIC) at LA County Office of Education. She is also a TOSA Academic Coach in the Glendora USD.